

Modern end-of-trip centre improves staff wellbeing

A new end-of-trip (EOT) centre in the $790 million Stage 1 Liverpool Hospital redevelopment will support staff who ride, walk or run to work or exercise during the day.

The new facility will give staff the opportunity to freshen up when they arrive to work and will include changerooms, showers and toilets, secure lockers, bike racks and bike repair stations.

Liverpool Hospital Acting General Manager Scott McGrath said the end-of-trip centre will be located in the basement of the new hospital building.

“It will improve staff wellbeing, encourages environmentally friendly travel such as biking, and promotes healthy lifestyle choices amongst our staff – including those who like to exercise during the day and shift workers at Liverpool Hospital,” Mr McGrath said.

Liverpool Hospital staff who currently access end-of-trip facilities were consulted in the design of the new centre.

Launching our first REDTalk!

Liverpool Hospital staff gained an insight into the progress of the redevelopment at the first of a series of REDTalks (Redevelopment Talk) last week.

Staff either tuned in virtually or attended in person to hear from Hospital Acting General Manager Scott McGrath, Director Redevelopment Karinn Marrone, Acting Commissioning Manager Jane Ferguson and Liverpool Hospital Director Corporate Services Cara Egan to discuss what’s being delivered and the departments/areas to be affected by the opening of the new hospital building.

Stay tuned for the next REDTalk – they will be held regularly as the new hospital building nears completion this year.

Amazing hospital artwork installations underway

The hospital building is shining with colour and community spirit with the installation of stunning new wall graphics.

Here are some of the beautiful pieces that have been installed in Haematology Ambulatory Care and Medical Imaging.

The wall art designs reflect the diverse culture of Liverpool and the themes of Belonging and Culture.

Created by artists from migrant and refugee backgrounds in south western Sydney, the designs explore the ideas of resilience, journeys, nature, family, and connection, identified during consultation and engagement sessions with multicultural community representatives.

Meet Amanda, our first aid expert!

Amanda Rostron's story of working on the Liverpool Health and Academic Precinct is an inspiring example to women considering a career in construction and was recently featured in Health Infrastructure's International Women's Day campaign.

Amanda has played an important role in the Liverpool Hospital

Redevelopment with her role as construction site first aider, hoist operator, and designer of job signage. She says that the best part of her job is that every day is different.

Amanda strongly encourages women considering a career in construction to "Do it! I wish I'd done it 20 years ago."
